

Inaugural Class of IAHSI – 2024

Jen Bichel-Findlay

Jen Bichel-Findlay, HScD, is an Adjunct Fellow at the University of Technology Sydney who has contributed significantly to many local, national, and international health informatics organisations and committees. Committed to supporting data driven decision making and major health reform through innovation and digital health initiatives, she has co-authored chapters in several nursing texts and written a range of digital health curricula for health science and nursing students. Jen plays an integral role in the Australasian health informatics certification program [CHIA].