

Class of IAHSI - 2023

Xiaoqian Jiang

Dr. Jiang is the Associate Vice President of Medical AI of the University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston (UTHealth). He is Christopher Sarofim family professor and serves as the center director of Secure Artificial intelligence For hEalthcare (SAFE) in the McWilliams School of Biomedical Informatics (SBMI) at UTHealth. His expertise is primarily in health data privacy and predictive models in biomedicine. He has received best and distinguished paper awards from American Medical Informatics Association (AMIA) Annual symposiums and the Joint Summits on Translational Science (2012, 2013, 2016, 2020) and serves as one of the organizers of the iDASH

Genome Privacy competition (2014 - present), which was reported by Nature News and GenomeWeb.