

Class of IAHSI - 2022

Laura-Maria Peltonen

Laura-Maria Peltonen, PhD is Adjunct Professor working at the Department of Nursing Science at the University of Turku in Finland. She works actively to improve the reach and impact of health informatics internationally. Her research focuses on user-centered development and evaluation of the impact of information technologies to better support healthcare delivery. She leads the Information and language technology for health information and communication \(IKITIK\) consortium, which is a transdisciplinary research consortium that focuses on developing clinically relevant intelligent solutions based on data and information collected in health services. Her publications are found here.