

Inaugural Class of IAHSI – 2024

Anandhi Ramachandran

Dr. Anandhi Ramachandran, professor health information technology, at International Institute of Health Management Research, Delhi India has 25+ years of wide experience that spans academics, research, training and software designing in the field of public health informatics, bioinformatics, information technology and business management. She is a member of Society for Administration of Telemedicine and Health Care Informatics, India. Her research interests include health system strengthening through digital technology adoption, telemedicine and health technology evaluations.