

Class of IAHSI – 2019

Adam Wright

Adam Wright, PhD is Professor of Biomedical Informatics at Vanderbilt University Medical Center. Dr. Wright's research focuses on clinical decision support and electronic health records, and he has published over 200 articles and two books on these topics. He also serves as a member of the Board of Directors of AMIA, associate editor of Applied Clinical Informatics, and a member of the editorial board of JAMIA and Methods of Information in Medicine.

Publications