

Class of IAHSI - 2022

Li Zhou

Dr. Li Zhou is Associate Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School and Lead Investigator at the Brigham and Women's Hospital. She earned her medical degree from Shanghai Medical University and PhD in Biomedical Informatics from Columbia University and then served as a Senior Medical Informatician at the Mass General Brigham healthcare system for over ten years. Her research has focused on temporal reasoning, natural language processing, machine learning and clinical decision support. She is an Associate Editor for the International Journal of Medical Informatics and an Associate Editor for the Journal of General Internal Medicine. She serves as a Board Director of the American Medical Informatics Association.